CLACSO is an international non-governmental organization with associate status at UNESCO, established in 1967.

Currently, it brings together 961 research and postgraduate centers in the fields of social sciences and humanities across 56 countries in Latin America and other continents.

Objetive

- Promote social research to combat poverty and inequality, strengthen human rights, and foster democratic participation.
- Contribute, through academic research and critical thinking, to promote sustainable development policies in economic, social, and environmental terms.
- Build bridges between social research and public policies, driving innovative, creative, and viable actions in response to the major social, educational, cultural, and environmental challenges of Latin America and the Caribbean.
- Support the formation of networks of researchers and institutions in the social sciences and humanities.
- Strengthen academic internationalization processes in Latin America and the Caribbean.
- Broaden academic cooperation and dialogue South-South and North-South.
- Stimulate the development and consolidation of social sciences and critical thinking in the poorest countries of Latin America and the Caribbean.
- Intervene in the national and regional public debate, contributing perspectives and contributions from results-based social research.
- Train government agents, social activists, and press professionals on social, educational, cultural, and environmental issues, bringing them closer to problems addressed from the social sciences and to the evidence provided by social research.
- Promote open access to Latin American and Caribbean academic production, democratizing knowledge and facilitating its use by diverse political and social actors.

Training Space and Postgraduate Network

The most dynamic training network in social sciences and humanities in the region, offering over 100 annual programs organized as master's degrees, specializations, diplomas, virtual seminars, intensive in-person schools, workshops, and open chairs.

A total of 2,470 faculty members from 324 member centers have contributed to educational initiatives grounded in Latin American and Caribbean critical thought, with a South–South perspective, engaging over 46,000 students from 47 countries.

Publications and Open Access

CLACSO publications address a wide range of themes at the local, regional, and global levels, through diverse theoretical and methodological approaches. Our goal is to ensure bibliodiversity and define new fields of knowledge, highlighting the richness of academic production by researchers within our network.

We uphold open access, multilingualism, gender parity, and regional bibliodiversity through open calls for submissions.

- Academic publishing that promotes more egalitarian, contextualized, plural, and inclusive models.
- Open calls for the publication of research projects focused on priority topics and emerging agendas in Latin America and the Caribbean.
- Tramas y Redes, a peer-reviewed, open-access scientific journal published biannually and indexed internationally.
- Participation in numerous local and international book fairs.
- Collaborative publishing alliances and co-edited books with over 100 partner institutions.
- New publications released weekly.
- 7,385 books available in the Latin American Bookstore and the Member Centers Repository.
- 206,083 full-text documents in the CLACSO Virtual Library.

Evaluation of Scientific Production and Teaching in Social Sciences and Humanities

- The Latin American Forum on Scientific Evaluation (FOLEC-CLACSO) is a space for proposal and debate on the meanings, policies, and practices of scientific evaluation processes in the region based on the principles of open and public science and knowledge as a human right and common good.
- Founder and promoter of the Open Knowledge for the Americas and the Global South (AmeliCA) alliance. Member of the Advisory Board of the San Francisco Declaration on Research Assessment (DORA). Collaborative work with UNESCO, SCIELO, REDALyC, IDRC, and ISC.
- The Latin American University Evaluation System (SILEU) proposes to carry out a comprehensive academic quality evaluation and accreditation process for undergraduate and postgraduate programs in Social Sciences, Humanities, and Arts. The evaluation is based on the principles of exchange, dialogue, agreement, and reciprocal recognition and is considered a learning process and not just a qualification process.

Programa Sur – Sur

- It builds bridges of exchange between Africa, Asia, Latin America, and the Middle East. It is an inter-regional academic platform for exchange and cooperation on issues of common interest in the Global South.

Promotion of Research

Grants and Calls) Organizes research calls, supporting projects oriented toward the production of critical knowledge based on evidence, with public commitment and impact on public policies and social organizations. It strengthens research on priority issues on the regional and global agenda, with emphasis on countries with less relative development in social sciences and humanities. It contributes to the training of new generations of researchers.

38 calls | More than 3,000 applications from 68 countries | Support for almost 500 researchers

PLATFORMS FOR SOCIAL DIALOGUE

Social Sciences Facing the Complexities of Inequality in Latin America and the Caribbean. Platforms for Social Dialogue (PDS)

The objective of this project is the production of evidence-based, critical, situated knowledge with high impact on defining policies, shaping public opinion, and positively transforming the living conditions of the most impoverished, oppressed, and discriminated populations.

The PDS are a working space implemented to promote exchanges, influence priority social issues, and contribute to the construction of common regional agendas that have a demonstrable impact on improving the quality of life of the most marginalized sectors of society.

The PDS have ten strategic axes
 Common knowledge: technologies, artificial intelligence, open science and territorial knowledge	 Democracies in dispute: horizons, resistances and the construction of alternatives from the public and the common
 Social right to education, public policies and pedagogical alternatives	 Structural inequalities and redistributive justice in Latin America and the Caribbean
 Migration and human mobility: rights, displacement and disputed policies	 Social movements and activism in Latin America and the Caribbean: resistance, articulations and the construction of the commons
 Feminist thought and action: transformations for the sustainability of life, justice and peace	 Reconfigurations of work and production models: challenges for social justice and the sustainability of life
 Geopolitical reconfigurations and multilateralism in transformation: perspectives from the Global South	 Just transitions and contested sovereignties: towards sustainable and inclusive futures from the Global South

X Latin American and Caribbean Social Sciences Conference “Horizons and Transformations for Equality. Democracies, Resistances, Communities, Rights and Peace”

The Latin American and Caribbean Social Sciences Conference constitutes the largest academic and political gathering of social sciences and humanities worldwide. This massive and international event, which accompanies the realization of CLACSO’s General Assemblies every three years, reached its tenth edition in 2025. The X Conference #CLACSO2025 took place in Bogotá from June 9 to 12, 2025, and addressed diverse themes based on the political and social conjunctures of the region, structured around 24 articulating axes defined in relation to the PDS.

112th Meeting of the CLACSO Steering Committee and 28th Ordinary General Assembly of CLACSO

As a central activity for the consolidation and strengthening of the institutional network, the 112th Meeting of the Steering Committee (Friday, June 6) and the 28th Ordinary General Assembly of CLACSO (Saturday, June 7, and Sunday, June 8, in the León de Greiff Hall of the National University of Colombia) were held in the days leading up to the X Conference. These meetings constitute key spaces for the democratic life of the institution, as they convene representatives of the CMs (Member Centers) to review the previous period, debate the strategic guidelines for the next three-year period, and define new authorities. In this framework, a new Steering Committee was ratified, and Pablo Vommaro was elected, by a large majority and with strong support from the network, as Executive Director for the 2025–2028 period.

Accreditations: 326 institutions with voice and vote | 149 observer institutions
